This mission directive prescribes the mission and establishes the responsibilities for Air Force Reserve Command (AFRC) equipment maintenance squadrons (EMS).

1. Mission:

1.1. Peacetime. The mission of the EMS is to provide a level of readiness sufficient to perform organization and intermediate level maintenance on unit assigned aircraft, transient aircraft, and related aerospace ground equipment. EMS provide a trained mobility maintenance force on an "as required" basis and operational aircraft for the peacetime flying program.

1.2. Wartime/Emergencies. Governed by gaining command directives.

2. Command. EMS are assigned to AFRC logistics groups. Their peacetime structure maintains effective operations with the least expenditure of resources and minimizes organizational turbulence upon wartime mobilization. EMS functionally align for structural compatibility with their active duty counterparts.

3. Assigned Forces. While in peacetime status and during 2 weeks of annual training, the EMS are under the direct control and supervision of the AFRC wing to which assigned. Under Presidential call-up pursuant to Title 10 U.S.C. 12304, administrative jurisdiction remains unchanged. Operational control transfers to the commander of the gaining command. Under mobilization authority, command jurisdiction transfers to the commander of the unit to which assigned by the gaining command.

4. Relationship to Other Units. Established command channels apply. Communicate directly with the active duty advisory unit/active duty advisors on matters relating to training, inspection, and safety. Send a copy of such correspondence to the respective unit to which assigned.

DAVID S. SIBLEY, Brig Gen, USAFR
